

More than 100 teams, including this group from the law firm Kaplan, Kirsch and Rockwell, will take part in the relay event at the Post-News Colorado Colfax Marathon.

Relay race gives groups a chance to show team spirit

Friendly competition is good for the soul. At least that's what Denver-area law firms think.

With a nudge from the lawyers of Kaplan, Kirsch and Rockwell, law firms are challenging one another to field the fastest relay team in the Post-News Colorado Colfax Marathon. The winners will have bragging rights as the quickest legal minds and feet in Colorado.

Despite the competitive challenge, the team from Kaplan, Kirsch and Rockwell is focused on something else besides winning.

"What are we looking forward to most?" asked Polly Jessen. "A good time and seeing the finish line!"

Jessen will be teamed with four colleagues who are all long-time recreational runners. In between their legal work and parental duties, they are squeezing in training time for the relay and pro bono legal services for the marathon.

Look for them on race day, and watch how fast these brawny barristers can run.
